The Harbor at the Left and Bonsecours Market at the Right

Owing to the great increase in ocean and river traffic at this point, the harbor has been wonderfully improved within the last few years. At present it can take care of several ocean liners and innumerable smaller craft any time.

Market Place, Jacques Cartier Square Directly in front of the docks is seen one of the greatest market places on the Continent, for here are representatives of many nations offering for sale produce, small live stock, wares and merchandise of every kind and description.

PARK DRIVE AND RESERVOIR.

One of the most picturesque spots at the base of Mount Royal. In the view the high level Reservoir, which supplies the upper portion of the city is to be seen Also, the lovely winding road, the high and rugged cliffs, dotted with innumerable pines, maples and stately oak

MARKET DAY, JACQUES CARTIER SQUARE.

This illustration gives one a good idea of a scene so familiar to our citizens. Market days are usually held on Tuesday and Friday, and on these days the habitants come in large numbers with their innumerable wares and products. The space around the Bonsecours Market being overcrowded, they fill up the whole street leading to where stands the statue of England's famous Admiral, Lord Nelson. This market is always a great source of attraction to the many tourists who visit our city.

ASCENDING MOUNT ROYAL BY WINDING ROAD

An enchanting drive in winter as well as summer is to the summit of Mount Royal by the Winding Road

SHERBROOKE STREET IN WINTER

On this street are located Montreal's most beautiful residences. Here we find the Mecca of style where wealth is lavishly displayed The drives on the street are greatly enjoyed by pleasure seekers of many nations
